NEWS BY THE ENGLISH MAIL,
VIA SUEZ.

The English and Eastern mails brought by the P. & O. Company's steamship Bokhara, were transmitted overland from Melbourne, and delivered from the General Post Office yesterday morning. The latest English date is October 22, seven days later than the date of the mail received on Wednesday by the Liguria. We take the following intelligence from the papers to hand:—

IRELAND AND THE POPE.

The Pope has summoned some of the Irish bishops to Rome, in order to give them instructions in view of the present state of affairs in Ireland. The clerical organ, Ostervore Roma, announces that numerous inquiries have reached the Vatican from Ireland as to what the Church intends to do in reference to the troubles in Ireland, and particularly with regard to this question that the Papacy, now more than ever, is anxious to avoid all interference in the political affairs of nations, and has always recommended the clergy not to depart from their mission of peace and quiet. It is quite recent that the bishops in Ireland have been strictly within the limits prescribed by the laws of the countries in which they were severally located whenever any question of internal order or policy should arise.

AGRICULTURAL MURDER IN IRELAND.

The农夫们 have been expelled from their establishment in Ireland. The police authorities were obliged to force the doors to effect an entrance into the building. A scuffle ensued between the gendarmes and a battalion of infantry had also to be summoned to maintain order in the vicinity of the establishment.

such as to the condition of the race at the finish. On the one hand, there it was maintained that Laycock had been passed, passed him, and that had the race run another hundred yards he would have been overtaken by his opponent; and on the other, that Laycock won with consummate ease. Of course, it is difficult to say which of these statements is correct. Many who witnessed the race, however, said that Laycock certainly showed signs of distress, and to those who repeat that he was safe the doubters urge that it is by no means to his credit if a distress was put on or assumed. Yet this has been said, but whether there was any ground for the suspicion I cannot say. It may be worth while to add that Laycock, after finishing his last race, scarcely used his silks at all, and that his opponent was sliding, rocking, and twisting throughout the race. The success of Laycock has, of course, raised the hopes of the party who are weary of Trickett, and notwithstanding that Hanlan is declared to be "awfully fit," I shall stick to Trickett as the winner."

THE JEWS IN FRANCE.

The Tribunal des Conflits of the Conseil d'Etat is now engaged in examining the suits brought by the heads of Jewish establishments against public functionaries for wrongful eviction. The question is—are the Courts competent to decide such cases? The Ministers of Justice and the Interior have both favoured the tribunals with their advice, to the effect that the Courts can be alleged against the agents of the Government. And of this, of course, there is no question. The Journal des Tribunaux says, in its article on the subject, that the French Government has resolved upon closing the chapels of the unauthorized religious associations in a few days, deferring, however, indefinitely the expulsion of the members of the confederations.

The confederates have been expelled from their establishment in Ireland. The police authorities were obliged to force the doors to effect an entrance into the building. A scuffle ensued between the gendarmes and a battalion of infantry had also to be summoned to maintain order in the vicinity of the establishment.

MISCELLANEOUS.

On the failure of Mr. Callan, M.P., to surrender at the Central Criminal Court to take his trial for libelling Mr. Sullivan, M.P., application was made that his recognisance should be extended, and that a warrant should be issued for his apprehension. As, however, a considerable time had been occupied in the examination of the prosecution, for the removal of the case to the Queen's Bench, the trial was postponed to November, subject to certain conditions being observed by the defendant.

Sir Daniel Cooper has received a letter from the Secretary State for India, in which he is remonstrated with the present condition of the South and West of Ireland, and particularly with the want of and melancholy fruit. On October 10 a fresh agrarian assassination took place at Inishmangan, a spot situated between Drimoleague and Bantry, in the county of Cork. The intended victim on this occasion was a magistrate and land proprietor, Mr. John H. Samuel. His son, Mr. Arthur Samuel, who was on his way home having collected a few rents in the neighbourhood, this gentleman, however, more fortunate than Lord Lettrin, Lord Mountnorris, or any of those whose recent murder has stained the soil of Ireland with blood, was spared, and that a warrant should be issued for his apprehension. As, however, a considerable time had been occupied in the examination of the prosecution, for the removal of the case to the Queen's Bench, the trial was postponed to November, subject to certain conditions being observed by the defendant.

The Bishop of Lincoln has been strongly arguing against the bill for legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister, declaring his conviction that England would before long, under such a law, be infested with adultery. In Dublin, the capital of the United Kingdom, the auditors of the Exchequer, the seat of the law courts, and the capital of Ireland, within 11 hours of London by rail, the landed proprietors of the country are actually obliged to meet in private and discuss measures for the preservation of their lives and property, without venturing to do so in public or allow the names and statements of the speakers to be made known. When her Majesty's Representative and the Minister who is specially charged with Irish interests in the Cabinet are compelled to receive a deputation of men in the highest social position to tell them that it would cost them their lives were their names to be made known outside the Council-chamber of Dublin Castle, the people of this country will begin to ask themselves whether such a state of things is to be tolerated. If the Government are not prepared to defend it, that it is no longer in their power to protect human life or uphold the public tranquillity and supremacy of the law in Ireland.

REIGN OF TERROR IN IRELAND.

An English journal says: "It is somewhat difficult for an Englishman to understand the present condition of affairs in Ireland, as they were described by the noblemen and gentlemen who assembled in conference the other day in the Irish metropolis, and subsequently waited upon the Lord Lieutenant and Chief Secretary, to remonstrate against the whole body of English administration. In

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS AND FLOODS.

Severe gales accompanied by heavy rains have been experienced over nearly the whole of the United Kingdom during the past few weeks. Accounts received from the provinces testify to the violence of the storms and give particulars of the damage which in many places has been occasioned. In the Sheffield district the downpour was extraordinary, and the houses were overwhelmed by the fury of the storm. The rivers Porter and Sheaf overflowed their banks during the day and flooded acres of meadow land. The valley of the Don was also under water for hundreds of acres, and in quarters where the corn had not been sown great loss had been sustained. The floods at Elsecar and Shiremoor were exceedingly serious, as nothing but a portion of the Barnsley Road stood between the flood water and the valley below. The Barnsley Road crosses the valley, and the culvert through which the water should run was blocked up. The roadway is on the top of a high embankment, which is being gradually washed away, and a considerable portion of the embankment has given way. On one side there was a breach 20 yards in length and extending four yards into the road-way, and on the other side a breach of 15 yards. Only about 200 yards of the embankment remained intact, and had the whole given way the village would have been lost. It is found that this cannot continue to withstand the pressure. Two engines have been hard at work in pumping out the water, but without effect. The depth is increasing rather than diminishing. The inhabitants are in a very bad way, and are unable to be supported for the coming down of water, and in several instances furniture has been removed. In one case a house has been deserted. The village in the lower valley comprise Grange-lane, Hartley-brook, Blackburn, and Meadow-hall, and in the event of the embankment giving way the water will rush through the width of which before it reaches an open country.

MR. BRADLAUGH AND THE MAORIS.

The following letter has been sent to Mr. Bradlaugh, M.P., in reference to his allegation that New Zealanders are confined in prison without trial for political and religious reasons. —"Sir,

I enclose to you my letter received in this department, I pray you to return it to me as soon as possible.—I am, Sir, &c.

Yours very truly, &c.,

GEORGE WILSON.

THE WAR IN PERU.

A telegram from Panama reports that the Chilian war vessel Cordadonga, The ship, on September 14, took on a supposed abandoned boat, which was loaded with dynamite, and exploded when it came into contact with the hull of the vessel. Four persons on board were saved. A private telegram was received in Liverpool on October 11 from a firm of merchants, stating that negotiations for peace between Chile and Peru had been opened at Arica through the medium of the United States. Another telegram speaks of the arrival of the Chilian Angostura at Callao by the Chilians in retaliation for the sinking of the Cordadonga by the Peruvians, and in consequence of the refusal of the latter to make reparation by surrendering the ship and the transport vessel Rima.

EXTRAORDINARY RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

A most extraordinary railway accident occurred on the Midland Railway to the Scotch night express on October 9. Two express trains leave St. Pancras every evening—one at half-past 8, the other at a quarter-past 9. The latter is the Scotch mail, and passes the former at Leicester. On the night in question the driver of the Scotch express, returning from a short stoppage at Derby, was unable to get into the station. He had forgotten that that point of his engine was fastened to the platform, and it got stuck.

He had to wait until the train had started, and then had to pull the lever to move it forward again, so that they were moving forward in the opposite direction.

The result of the collision was that a boy, who was traveling on the London side of Leicester, in order that the other train might have time to shunt. Receiving a signal to the effect that the line was clear, he again started; but he started backwards. He had forgotten that that point of his engine was fastened to the platform, and it got stuck.

sented at Melbourne by a competent person duly authorized to act for them in this matter. It is to be hoped that the Government will give prompt attention to the peculiar circumstances of the case. A considerable amount of interest has been shown at the elections in the subject of technological education; and although there is a want of precise ideas as to what should be done, and who should do it, and how the Government should lend its aid, it may safely be said that the establishment of such a museum as is now proposed would render important service to the cause, whatever the general plan of operations might be. The Government may safely act with promptitude, vigour, and liberality, in giving this project effect. One great difficulty that might have stood in the way under less fortunate circumstances does not exist. A suitable building is already available. The collection already in hand is actually stored in it; and what is wanted now is that the articles, instead of being merely stacked or stored, and exposed to injury from rats or otherwise, should be properly arranged, with a view to public inspection and their own protection. The PREMIER has distinctly expressed his own opinion as to the use of part of the Garden Palace for this purpose. When he was addressing the electors of East Sydney, a few days ago, he remarked that the Garden Palace would last for forty or fifty years with care, and added that "the time should no longer be delayed in dedicating it to some special purpose. He thought it ought to be converted into a people's palace; that it should be the seat of a technological museum; that it should be the seat of a promenade, where the works of art and of the higher manufactures could be brought into association for the edification and guidance of the men and women of the country." Matters of this kind would, perhaps, come more properly within the department of the Minister for Public Instruction than that of the Colonial Secretary; but the PREMIER's remarks were made in the presence of Sir JOHN ROBERTSON. It is certainly desirable that this undertaking, to which the Government is already (and rightly) committed, should be carried out in a manner worthy of the Government; and, as we have shown, there are peculiar reasons why what might be done at the present moment to help the matter forward should be done quickly.

At the Melbourne Intercolonial Conference the South Australian delegates introduced a proposition in favour of each colony admitting the wines of the others duty free. How would that affect New South Wales? Last year our export of wine to Victoria seaward and overland consisted of 3724 gallons of our own produce, and 1302 gallons of foreign produce, the whole valued at £2176. To South Australia the exports were 28 gallons of our own, and 731 gallons of foreign produce, valued at £466. New Zealand and Queensland are our principal customers, and they took last year between them 9930 gallons of our own, and 18,780 gallons of foreign produce. But neither of them is represented at the Melbourne Conference, and the plenipotentiaries now assembled there are entitled to speak provisionally only on behalf of the three Governments by which they are empowered to confer. Our imports of wine last year from Victoria amounted to 16,333 gallons in quantity, and £981 in value; from South Australia the quantity was 13,556 gallons, for a value of £6101. The duty payable to our revenue, on the tariff now in force, would be for this quantity of wine £4450 from Victoria, and £4607 from South Australia. The duty payable to Victoria on the quantity she imported from us could not exceed £1300, and to South Australia the importation of £1200 on the whole year's transactions. The proposition of the South Australian representatives, therefore, would involve no sacrifice on their part, but a considerable sacrifice on the part of New South Wales. The tariffs of the three colonies, moreover, are all different. South Australian charges only 4/- per gallon on all kinds of wine; Victoria charges 8/- for sparkling and 6/- for other kinds; while New South Wales has a duty of 10/- per gallon on sparkling, and 8/- on the rest. We do not see how these differences can be easily accommodated, even if they were not still further complicated by another. All the three colonies are growers of wine, and in all three the industry is somewhat of a struggling one. South Australia has perhaps made the largest relative progress, and there she has her neighbours at an advantage. But Victoria produced last year 57,143 gallons of wine and 324 gallons of brandy from 4284 acres under crop. New South Wales produced 731,576 gallons of wine and 4196 gallons of brandy from 4236 acres under crop. Our imports of wine from all countries amounted to 201,647 gallons, which is only about one-fifth of our local consumption. Hitherto the aim of our Parliament in imposing the Customs duty has been simply to secure a sufficient revenue, and the protection has been incidental. But to remove the duty suddenly would be disastrous, and the question for our financiers is rather whether the Customs impost should not be balanced by one of excise, both for wine and beer.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Eastern question appears to be breaking out afresh. Earl Granville, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has addressed a note to the Great Powers regarding the unfulfilled portions of the Treaty of Berlin, and proposes that the combined fleet now in the Adriatic Sea should not be dispersed, and that the European concert should be maintained until those clauses of the Treaty relating to the Armenian and Greek questions have been executed. The Imperial Government has given instructions for a further strengthening of the military and constabulary forces now in Ireland. The murder of an American citizen at the Fiji Islands has formed the subject of communications between the Government of the United States and the British Government, and the former, it is reported, is resolved to obtain redress for the crime.

The Parliamentary elections are now concluded. Polling took place yesterday in five electorates, resulting in the return of the following members, so far as the returns to hand show:—Messrs. R. Wilkinson and John Cramie, for Balmain; Messrs. A. Wilson and W. Hay, for the Murray; Messrs. W. C. Proctor and Henry Copeland, for New England; Messrs. Lewis and Burdick, for Tamworth. Polling also took place for Monaro, but the result has not yet reached us.

We have been favoured with a copy, received by the last mail, of the following letter addressed by Earl Kimberley to Sir Daniel Cooper, Bart.—"October 17, 1880. Dear Sir Daniel Cooper.—I have had great pleasure in recommending you to His Majesty for the honour of K.C.M.G. for your colonial services, and more particularly for the services you have rendered in connection with the Sydney Exhibition, and which I have had personal opportunity of witnessing as a brother commissioner.—Believe me, very faithfully yours (Signed), KIMBERLEY. Sir D. Cooper, Bart."

With the compulsory clause of the Public Instruction Act was discussed a fear was expressed lest it should be found that the school accommodation in existence would not be sufficient to meet the requirements if compulsory attendance at school was enforced. The Department of Public Instruction therefore took care to make specific inquiries before having the proclamation issued by which the compulsory system was applied to any district. The result, it transpires, is that the accommodation provided in school districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4 suffices for more than 25,000 pupils, whereas the average daily attendance, by the last return, was under 19,000, and there is therefore room for at least 6000 pupils more than there are in average attendance. It is not likely that so large an increase as 20 per cent. will take place even under the operation of the compulsory clause of the Act. The increase of school attendance throughout the colony may be seen from the following figures.—During the March quarter there were on the rolls altogether 101,534 pupils; but during the September quarter there were 114,075 on the rolls, showing an increase of 13,141. The average attendance during the March quarter was 60,090; and during the September quarter it was 77,395, showing an increase of 18,305.

Messrs. GILCHRIST, WATT, and Co. inform us that they have received a cablegram announcing the arrival of the R.M.S. City of New York at San Francisco on the 29th November, two days in advance of her con-tract time.

The Full Court, yesterday, consisting of their Honours the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Harrarpe, and Sir William Manning, granted a rule nisi for a new trial in Lee v. Stevenson. In Sanderson v. Little, a writ of attachment for contempt, granted last term, was enlarged for a week. In the Court of New South Wales v. Hoffnung, a demurrer to the declaration, judgment was given for the defendant; and in Keele v. Halibut, the rule nisi for a new trial was made absolute.

The case of Dibbs v. Dibble and Blair is slowly proceeding in the Divorce Court, before His Honor Mr. Justice Windsay and a jury. Yesterday the examination of the correspondents was terminated, and Mrs. Dibble went into the box. Her examination lasted more than four hours, and was not concluded when the Court rose. The hearing will be continued this morning.

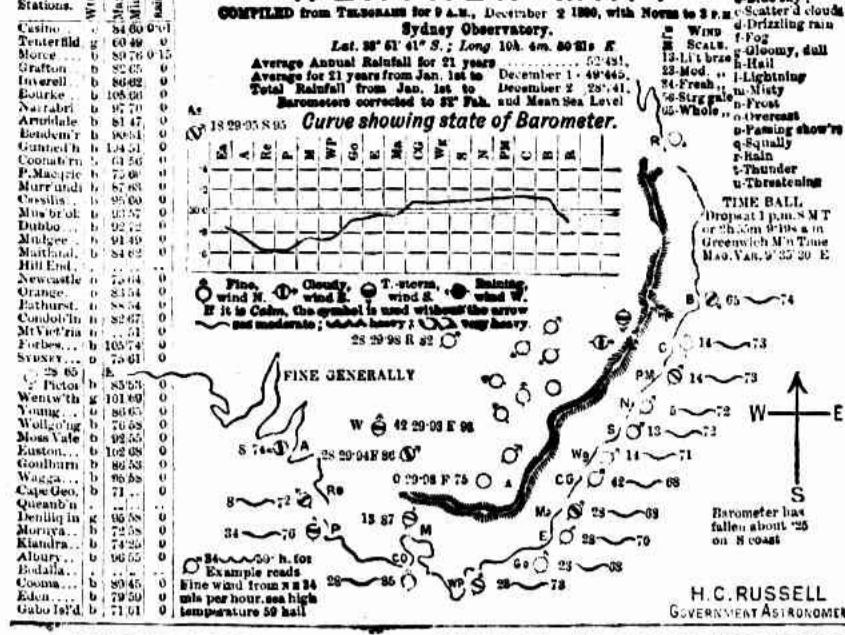

We are requested to acquaint the public that the condition of the Botany reservoir is such as to cause uneasiness. The rate which is stated by the Government Astronomer to be the driest on record, and its effects are palpably visible in the dryness of the water in the reservoirs. Citizens, therefore, in their mutual interests, will do well to make every effort in their power to economise. Upon all previous occasions calls like the present have been met by the citizens in a very commendable spirit, and an immediate reduction has been observable in the consumption. As there have been few occasions when the necessity for economy has been greater, it is to be hoped that every consumer will respond to this call with equal alacrity.

In commenting on the proceedings of the Conference now sitting in Melbourne, the Age remarks:—"It is Sir Henry Parkes' anxious to make a name for himself.

He is a splendid orator, but he is a poor man.

He is a good man.
